

1 ABSTRACT

2       A carrier with a handle having a left side and a right side and a loop string having two 3 sides with the first side held on the left side on the handle and the second side being held on the 4 right side of the handle. The handle may have a shoulder strap attached to the handle and may 5 be adjusted to the shoulder length. The strap is to be tied in a loop. The handles may have a 6 buckle attached to a waist belt. The handle defines a gap on the left side and a gap on the right
7 side through which the loop may pass upon compression and an opening for receiving the loop
8 wider than the gap. A buckle for restricting the length of the loop of string to secure a load within 9 a hoop formed by the string. A plurality of strings of different lengths may be used. A loader for 10 leading bags on the handle is also shown.
